President's Message

A lot has changed in the bridge world since I started playing. I was reading an old edition of the Islander in which the then president, Jerry Prisyon, referred to the regional tournaments as the source of profit the unit used to run other events. Now the regional tournaments are the biggest drain on our finances, generally losing several thousand dollars. It's the silver point games that keep us going.

With this in mind there will be some changes coming. The most drastic is that starting this year our Spring Regional will end on a Saturday, not the traditional Sunday. We will start a day earlier. Weekends have had the smallest attendance in recent years, and are the biggest contributor to our losses. It is likely that Saturdays will be removed from future schedules also.

In happier news many of our players performed well in national events at the recent nationals in Orlando. Dori Cohen and Rob Gordon finished second in the 0-10,000 fast pairs, 17th in the 0-10,000 imp pairs, and 18th in the open mixed swiss teams. Mel Colchamiro was also on the successful swiss team. Lesley Decker Lucas and Steve Lucas were second in the 0-10,000 swiss and 18th in the 0-10,000 imp pairs. Ljudmila Kamenova finished third in the open mixed swiss and third in the open board-a-match teams. If you've ever played in a national event you know how incredible these achievements are. Congratulations to all, and to anyone I might have missed when I went through the overalls.

Dori, Rob, Ljudmila, and Mike Massimilla also won the Frank Allison double knock-outs in our unit after routing my team in the final match (by one imp!). We are going to run this event again starting this spring. We do it in honor of Frank, who was a much beloved tournament director and club owner in our unit, and almost every director in our unit owes him some thanks, as he helped many out of some tough jams. Get a team and play.

See you at the bridge table,

Joe Byrnes

Changes in the ACBL

ACBL CEO Robert Hartman has resigned, and will leave his position in July. Mr. Hartman, ACBL CEO since 2011, announced that he will be moving on to a family business in South Florida. A search committee has been formed and an advertisement for the position is posted on the ACBL website and will appear in the Bridge Bulletin. Other ACBL positions are also open including web developer. Interested? Visit the ACBL website for further information.

Another major change involves the ACBL Education Foundation, an independent 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. The foundation is being restructured, with new trustees, mostly successful business people (bridge players) who will look to greatly expand both the revenue stream and the projects it will support. They are hoping to raise millions and to “revolutionize bridge education efforts.” The transition will be completed by mid-2017. This past year the foundation supported a program to develop bridge software that would help attract and develop new players. A grant was given to a pair of youngsters who will demonstrate their software at the spring NABC.

Changes locally include new Unit officials. Joe Byrnes is in his second year as president of the NSBA and David Moss is in his first year as president of the GNYBA. Both have shown expertise in dealing with the local bridge business. Noting the dedicated work that they and the board members of both organizations do to service the 6,000 District members, I wish all much success.

Something that hasn't changed is the success of our District bridge clubs. Honors, taking over as the #1 ACBL club based on table count, surpassed 20,000 tables last year. The Sagamore Bridge Club, was 13th with more than 9,000 tables. Both clubs have a wide range of games and teaching programs, and the Sagamore Club is renowned for, under Silvana Zangri, raising the most funds during the Longest Day event every year that the event has been held! Other District clubs in the top 200 (out of over 3,000) are the Cavendish Bridge Club, Aces Bridge Club, Temple Judea Bridge Club, BridgeExpress, Bridge School of Long Island, and the Smithtown Bridge Studio. See the listing of all the clubs at the ACBL website.

Another thing that hasn't changed is my continued service as District Director. Reelected recently I hope to serve my last term and pass on the responsibility, after 24 years, to someone who will work for the best interests of bridge. I'm now the longest serving board member of the current board. I also continue my service to the World Bridge Federation as Executive VP and IT chair, and continue to run the World Computer-bridge Championship, with the 21st annual event taking place at the 2017 World Championships.

Letters to the Islander

Dear Islander:

Here is a question that came up in a recent game but the answer does not have unanimity among experienced players or websites. Opener bids 1D, LHO bids 1S. Partner of opener has 11 points and 4-3-3-3 distribution. She has Jxx Kxx Qxx AJxx. Responder felt 1NT was inappropriate given only a J in a suit bid by opponent. Whether she could, or should, bid 2C was the issue. Some websites recommend bidding on the 2nd level only with 5 cards; others say 4 cards are enough; still others say you need 4 in a minor and 5 in a major. Can you clarify?"

Dear Maxine,

You certainly gave a lot of people a lot to think about! Eight excellent Long Island players were consulted but Mel Colchamiro had such interest in this hand that he gave it to 11 other champion players who weighed in on it. Joe Byrnes gave it to another expert. As in many cases with bridge hands, there clearly is no perfect or "right" answer as evidenced by the websites you consulted and the variety of disparate answers our experts contributed.

Below I've summarized the 20 responses received...

2♣ - The Winner with 8 votes: Eric Kokish, Jim Griffin, Steve Lucas, Lesley Decker Lucas, Rob Gordon, Dori Cohen, Mitchell Pollenz, Glenn Milgrim

1NT - 5 Votes: Mel C., Joe Byrnes, Barry Rigal, Lou Gamerman, Alex Ornstein

Negative X - 5 Votes: Glenn Eisenstein, Lou Lessinger, Chris Willenken, Alan Falk, Mehli Ozdil

Pass - 2 Votes: Diana Schuld, Jared Lilienstein

You are correct in your thinking that the 2♣ bid should usually suggest 5 pieces but as one of those who chose 2♣, I did not feel comfortable bidding NT with no real stopper in the suit nor did I feel comfortable making a negative double without 4 of the other major or passing with 11 points. Generally 1NT here would show 8-10 points with a spade stopper.

Mel C. chose 1NT. Having 11 points instead of the 8-10 did not concern him and he was happy to have "an extra jack." He explained "All top players know that just about the number one matchpoint rule is to protect your plus score." Even if the opponents take the first 5 spade tricks, says Mel, we may take the last 8 for +120 which beats a partial in clubs or diamonds that makes +110. He goes on to say that "1NT just is most likely to get us to a reasonable contract and level with a hand that is a bit difficult to handle."

Mel posed a similar situation. Suppose LHO opens 1♠, your partner doubles, RHO passes and you have the same hand mentioned above and have to respond to the double. Again, the same people were polled.

This time, 10 people bid 1NT...even though many players feel this shows 8-10 with a spade stopper. Those bidding 1NT here were Mel, Jim, Joe, Lou, Steve, Eric, Chris, Barry, Alan and Alex. Five players voted for 3♣...jumping a level to show values. These were Dori, Lesley, Mitchell, Diana and Louis L. And Glenn E. and Rob suggested 2♠...cuebidding the opponent's suit to show values.

So, Maxine, what appears to be a relatively simple hand...a 4-3-3-3 11 count, is not simple at all! One of the things that draws us to this always fascinating game is that there can be varying perspectives and sometimes no "right" answer. Weigh your options, accept that none of them is perfect, and make a bid you feel most comfortable with. A good partner will acknowledge your dilemma and be supportive of your decision.

Dear Islander:

A stray quirky thought: Can you think of a situation in which Pass is alertable? Perhaps after interference over RKCB? Any others?

Regards,

Anthony Swanwick

Dear Anthony:

There are a few instances when a pass must be alerted. The most common I can think of is when partner opens 2♣ and the next player overcalls. Many players use double here to show a bust and pass shows values. This would require an alert.

The auction you mentioned about passing after interference in a keycard auction does not require an alert. No response to any form of Blackwood does, but all such bids (including the pass) must be explained before the opening lead.

I'm sure there are other more obscure cases where a pass would require an alert. Generally it would be only when the pass showed some distributional value or unexpected strength.

I hope this helps.

Joe Byrnes

Dear Islander:

Thanks for all the work you do. I think it's time AGAIN to explain the problem with and rulings for hesitations. It is one of the most common errors new and not-so-new players make. Not to mention touching and fidgeting with the bidding box. Then they get upset when the director is called.

Regards from Florida,

Elyse Butnick

Dear Elyse:

Our very busy President decided to write an article in response to your letter. You'll find his response on pages 18-19.

Regards from New York,

Mark

Dear Islander:

My partner, Shelley Kirschenbaum, often complains that I pass too much.

It was Board 17 on the morning of December 29 at the Edgar Kaplan Winter Regional in Manhattan. Shelley, sitting North, opened 1♣, and I bravely bid 1♦ with only 4 points, 5 diamonds, and four hearts. West overcalled 1♠, with what turned out to be a 16-count and 5 spades headed by the AQ10. Shelley insufficiently bid

NSBA ISLANDER

1♠ and a director, Joe Benedetto, was summoned to hear this tale of woe. He believed my partner overlooked the 1♠ overcall.

East was told she could accept my partner's bid as legal and proceed without any further restrictions on anyone (Law 27a). If East declined, my partner could make her bid sufficient with a 2♠ bid (Law 27b). There were many other choices. I particularly like the one where I would be precluded from further bidding, but nobody asked me. I had said too much already.

My RHO elected to accept my partner's 1♠ bid and passed. The GNYBA had charged me $20 and had given me almost no points and 3 spades.; it was not a time to save anyone. Any bid would have encouraged partner to keep going. West passed and Shelley was declarer in 1♠.

When she saw the board, Shelley thanked me sincerely and played very nicely to make the bizarre 1♠ contract. She collected the aces in her hand and ruffed two clubs on the board and two heart ruffs in her hand, and later collected the trump K, scoring 80 in a 4-3 trump fit. Here is the entire hand:

	♠ - K963
	♥ - A
	♦ - 762
	♣ - AQJ43
♠ - AQ1042		♠ - 5
♥ - 865		♥ - KJ1093
♦ - AK		♦ - Q84
♣ - K92		♣ - 10765
	♠ - J87
	♥ - Q742
	♦ - J10953

Had I passed, my LHO would probably have bid 1NT and her partner would have transferred to 2♥, making 2. They can also make 2♠ or 2NT, for 110 or 120.

The moral of the story of the story is to always have a singleton in the suit in which your partner has an ace.

Leonard Feld

Dear Leonard,

Thanks for sharing your tale. I'm sure we will all try to follow the moral of your story, but even more importantly, we will also hope we have such understanding partners!

Dear Islander:

Never thought I'd ever write to you for publication; but, never say never.

I sit E. and am the dealer with nobody vul.

♠ - ♥ - A Q 10 7 4 ♦ - A J 10 9 8 5 3 ♣ - 10

I open 1♦ and South over calls 2♠. Partner passes and North bids 4♠. With only 4 losers and such a distributional hand I take a shot at 5♥. I'm thrilled that I make and, of course as my life goes, others make 6 and our score is the same as if I would have passed. BUT, I had a lot of fun playing the hand.

Ed Leviten

Dear Ed,

At least the you found the silver lining in the hand. Bridge is a game, and as long as you have fun, you're playing the game the right way!

CLUB NEWS

Melih Ozdil has played at our club for many years. Last summer he held three seminars on bidding, counting, doubles, partner communication and play of the hand. It was such a treat for all of us to learn his theories and improve our play. We had over 40 players attend each of his lessons which he taught pro bono. We are a small club on the East End of long Island but the turnout and support for these events was unbelievable.

What Are Your Leads?

by Diana Schuld

Talk about a question frequently asked at the bridge table. I'll give you 3 guesses as to the usual answer.....STANDARD. What does that mean? According to the boldface type on the convention card it means you lead 4th best from any length or strength, TOP of 3 small against No Trump and LOW from 3 small against a suit contract. Is that what your opening leads look like? If not, let's find the correct answer.

Most players on the East Coast prefer using 4th best or low from an honor only. (Some play attitude leads against No Trump, which means the low card can be from 5+ cards.) That means that when you are leading from a worthless 3-card holding, you generally lead MUD (Middle, Up, Down.) If you extend this to 4 and 5-card holdings, you lead 2nd highest and call it Roman Mud. Is everyone with me so far? This is NOT Standard.

So.....what should you answer? Against suits, answer: 2nd or 4th. Simple, isn't it? Against No Trump: the same unless you play Attitude leads, then Attitude is the simple answer. You may choose to lead top of 3 instead of MUD against NT. That still falls under the Attitude answer.

Let's also talk about leads of J, 10, or 9. If you use standard leads, any of these cards can also be top of an interior sequence: i.e. KJ10x, Q109x, J98x, etc. These would be the standard card when you are leading against a suit contract and has exactly one card missing. I personally recommend using standard against suit contracts. Now we come to another way to treat these holdings. It is called Journalist or, more commonly, Coded 10s and 9s. It simply means when you lead a 10, you either have the K-J or (in a No Trump contract) A-J above it or nothing higher. If you lead the 9 you always have the 10 plus the Q or K above or none. When using coded 10s and 9s your partner needs to let you know he has one of the missing high cards by playing it. This is especially effective against No Trump Contracts. The advantage of this system against NT is that when you lead the Jack, you promise no higher card. You would hold J10(9)....

There is another lead system called 3rd and 5th. Players who use it know how to explain and will never use the word, Standard.

What's your carding?

Finally! Now you can answer: STANDARD! Unless, of course, you don't. Some players use Upside Down carding. Always ask, because if they play a low card in a suit, they like it. If you signal with a high card to ask your partner to continue, you play Standard Carding.

Don't Be a Loser — Don't Overuse Loser Count

The first time I learned about Loser Count was long ago when my then-teenage daughters would bring home an endless series of boyfriends. That was Loser Count!

The next time I learned about Loser Count was when I purchased and read the seminal work on the subject, by Australian bridge-writer Ron Klinger, The Modern Losing Trick Count (1986). It's the Loser Count bible. But it's a modest bible.

When I read "the bible" I learned the Golden Rule of Loser Count from page 10: "Losing Trick Count (LTC) is used after a trump fit has been established." And on page 13, the "bible" says "It (LTC) is not designed for NT hands and is quite unsuitable for misfit hands.... It is the number of tricks you can expect to win if your trump suit breaks normally and half of your finesses work." Read those sentences again.

Then on page 143 author Klinger writes: "If you consider LTC as a useful adjunct to your normal bidding methods, it will be a valuable tool indeed. If you look on it as a panacea for your bidding problems you will be bitterly disappointed." That said, let's see what it's all about.

How Loser Count Works

Losing Trick Count (Loser Count) is a way to value a hand, like the 4-3-2-1 point-count system is. But its valuation method is much different. It is an estimate of how many losers you are likely to have in a trump contract. In some situations LC works better than counting points, usually when you have unbalanced hands.

To determine how many "losers" you have, count a loser in each suit that you do not have an ace, king or queen. In a doubleton suit, only worry about the ace and king, in a singleton suit only worry about the ace, and in a void suit there is nothing to worry about—you have no losers there. Here is an example hand:

♠-AJxxx
♥-KJx
♦-KJxx
♣-x

This is a "7-loser hand." Two losers in spades—the king and queen; two losers in hearts—the ace and queen; two losers in diamonds—the ace and queen; one loser in clubs—the ace.

Note that if we shift one of the diamonds into clubs so that the hand is:

♠-AJxxx
♥-KJx
♦-KJx
♣-xx

Now we have an 8 loser hand—because we now have two losers in clubs.

Finally, let's shift one card out of spades into clubs so that the hand is:

♠-AJxx
♥-KJx
♦-KJx
♣-xxx

NSBA ISLANDER

Now we have a 9-loser hand—because we now have 3 losers in clubs.

As you can see, the more balanced your hand is, the more estimated losers it has and, vice-versa, the more skewed your hand is—when you have long suits—the fewer estimated losers you have. Such hands have more playing strength for the same given high card strength than balanced hands. Have you ever heard the expressions “With 6-4 bid more” and “With 6-5, come alive?” They’re based on loser count.

Is It All Really That Simple?

That’s the simple way to calculate Loser Count—but there’s more to it. Simple LC ain’t perfect. It overvalues queens versus kings and aces, and overvalues kings versus aces and it undervalues aces versus everything.

Look at these three-card holdings:

Axx

Kxx

Qxx

Though each of them are counted as 2-losers, all of us know that Axx is better than Kxx which is better than Qxx. A queen with no supporting ace, king, jack or ten is probably best figured at 2 ½ losers (according to Mel, and, more importantly, according to Klinger). But then things get messy and complicated—who wants to work with fractions? So most players just figure Qxx(x)(x) as two losers. This is one way in which simple loser count isn’t quite a panacea for all bidding ills.

The same thing goes for jacks when they are connected to higher honor cards—they get shortchanged.

AJx
Axx

KJx
Kxx

QJx
Qxx

Each of the couplets are rated as two losers, but we all know which one we’d really rather have—we’d want the jack to help us out. For example, AJx vs Qxx in life is at most one loser no matter what, but Axx vs Qxx will be one loser only half the time. But LC figures that 2 losers are equally likely with or without the jack. Similarly, when AJx faces xxx, 75% of the time there will be two losers. But opposite 109x, 75% of the time there will be only one.

Full-Bore Loser Count?

For sure, Loser Count has its place. But don’t overuse it. LC de-vo-tays go all the way and totally replace point-count bidding with loser-count bidding.

I strongly advise against that.

Stick to normal bidding and hand evaluation and only use LC selectively, otherwise you will tie yourself into bidding knots such as the following. Loser Count analysis tells us that most opening bids have about 7 losers, as in a normal hand such as this:

♠-xx
♥-KQJxx
♦-AQx
♣-Jxx

So LC dev-o-tays say: “I open all 7-loser hands.” Well, not so fast. That would lead to the ridiculous conclusion that you should open 1♠ on the hand below because it has 7 losers:

♠-xxxxxx
♥-xxxxxx
♦-x
♣-void

But that you shouldn't open.....

♠-AJx
♥-KJx
♦-Jxx
♣-KJxx

.....because it has 9 losers!
See what I mean?

On page 13 of his book, Klinger warns and reminds us: "It is vital that you do not envisage the LTC as replacing point count. It is used as an adjunct to the point count when a trump fit comes to light."

When To Use Loser Count

One of the most common auctions is when a one of a major suit opening bid or a major suit 1-level overcall is raised to two, as in:

1♠ 2♠ or
1♥ 2♥

After the simple raise from partner, in each of these situations the opening bidder (or overcaller) has three choices:

Bid game in the major or try for game in the major or pass.

Instead of using point-count to guide your choice, the now-familiar idea is to use what's called 5-6-7 loser count. What that means is if you have 5 losers by loser count—just bid game; with 6 loser-count losers—try for game; with 7 or more loser count losers, just pass.

And sometimes, loser count seems to contradict point count; the two push you in different directions. Loser count usually knows better; follow loser count.

So below, after opening 1♠ and being raised to 2♠, with hand (1) we should pass(8 losers); with hand (2) we should try for game(6 losers); and with hand (3) we should bid game(5 lose rs).

1) ♠-AJxxx	2) ♠-AQxxx	3) ♠-AQxxx
♥-KJx	♥-x	♥-x
♦-AJx	♦-KJxxx	♦-KJxxx
♣-Qx	♣-Qx	♣-Kx

Suppose the responder's hand happens to be a normal-looking 9-point raise to 2♠:

♠-Kxx
♥-xxx
♦-Qxx
♣-Axxx

Opposite opener hand number (1) 2/3 of the time there will be a loser in spades; 3 times out of 4 we're gonna lose two tricks in hearts; 9 times out of 10 we're gonna lose a trick in diamonds and, barring a club lead away from the king, we're gonna lose a trick there, too. So, even if we get lucky in spades or hearts and lose only two tricks in those two suits combined, chances are great that 4S will fail. But opposite hand (2) we'll make 10 tricks with normal breaks and opposite hand (3) most of the time we'll make 11 tricks. It's a bit odd, but LC correctly guides us to pass 2♠ with 16 high card points (hand 1) but to move on with 12 and/or 13 high card points with hands (2) and (3).

How To Try For Game

Suppose your hand is...

♠-AKxxx
♥-Ax
♦-Kxxx
♣-xx

NSBA ISLANDER

...and partner raises your 1♠ opening bid to 2♠. You have 6-loser count losers so you try for game. But if you bid 3♠, partner will certainly raise to 4♠ if she has:

- ♠-QJxx
- ♥-Kxx
- ♦-xxx
- ♣-QJx

But if you match those two hands together you'll see that 4♠ has no chance: two actual club losers and at least two actual diamond losers—4♠ down one or two, though nobody did anything wrong—except use the wrong method for looking for game. (By the way, if we interchange responder's clubs for diamonds, 4♠ will make easily).

Side Suit Game Tries

Any many of you may know, It is much more effective to use what are known as "side-suit game tries." That is, in the above situation, instead of bidding 3♠, bid your side suit where you need "help"—fitting honors or ruff-a-bility. That's why they are sometimes called "help-suit game tries." Here, opener should try for game by bidding 3♦ (keep reading).

1-2-3 Loser Count in Reply

When responder hears a "side suit game try" she, in turn, should use LC, though here you should use "1-2-3 Loser Count." If the responder has one loser-count loser in the "side suit," then she should bid game in the major, no matter how weak her raise. If you have 2 loser-count losers in that suit, then use your judgment—if you have a made maximum raise, bid game, if you have a made a minimum raise go back to 3 of our major. And if you have 3 loser-count losers in the help suit, then definitely go back to 3 of our major—even if you have made a maximum simple raise to 2.

The Exception: When 5-6-7 Should Be 4-5-6

But long ago I came to a conclusion: 5-6-7 loser count doesn't work well when the opener's hand has a 5-card suit and a 4-card suit specifically. In those situations, I strongly advise lowering your sights a trick and use 4-5-6 loser count. That is, with 4 losers, bid game, with 5 losers try for game and with 6 or more losers, just pass.

Exception to the Exception

Not to make you crazy, but if your high cards are all aces and kings, then ignore the above exception—go ahead and use 5-6-7 loser count.

Mel's 'Compete Count' Utilizes Loser Count

What in the world is Mel's Compete Count? Well, MCC is a handy-dandy way to guide you in a situation where you're bidding your tail off, the opponents are fighting you every step of the way, and dopey partner is sitting there like a bump on a log putting out green card after green card. Just how much can you go it alone? Here's an example:

- ♠-x
- ♥-AQx
- ♦-AKQ10xx
- ♣-Kxx

The bidding has gone:

You	opponent	partner	opponent
1♦	1♠	P	2♠
3♦*	3♠	p	P
???

*Well within yourself.

Should you keep fighting? You should if—by presuming partner can cover just one of your losers (is that too much to ask for?)—you have as many estimated winners as tricks you would be contracting for if you bid once more. Here, you have 4 estimated loser-count losers. If partner can cover one of them, so you'd have only three losers, contracting for 10 tricks(three losers) should be in the ballpark. So here, it's ok to bid 4♦ (dbl is probably better) but pass may be too conservative.

But, if we change the hand ever so slightly—let's make the AQx in ♥ the AJx; now you have one additional loser-count loser and bidding forward would probably be too much.

You can use Mel's Compete Count on one-suiters like this one or on two-suiters (5-5, 6-5), but it is not really meant for balanced hands.

What I Do Do and What I Don't Do

Some players use the hard-line, full-bore loser count idea. They say—quoting LC theory and orthodoxy-- that because there are three estimated losers in each suit (A,K,Q) and each partner has 4 suits, each partner has at most 12 losers, and so the partnership has 24 losers in all. True enough.

Then they go on and explain that since loser count theory says that a minimum opening bid usually reflects 7 losers, if a fit is found and the responder has 7 Loser Count losers, that means there are only 14 losers between the two hands and if you subtract from 24, there must be 10 combined winners. So loser Count crazies bid game. They really drink the cool-aid. But things are not so simple.

Suppose you hold:

♠-KJxx
♥-xxx
♦-x
♣-KQxxx

The bidding has gone:

Partner	you
2♠	????

Strict loser count tells us that since we have 7 loser count losers and so does partner, there are 14 total losers and therefore there must be 10 total winners. So they bid 4♠. They wait expectedly for the sight of the dummy after the Q of hearts opening lead and are too often disappointed when partner tables:

♠-Axxx
♥-Kxx
♦-KQxx
♣-Jx

Presuming the ace of hearts lies over the king, there are at least 5 top losers and maybe 6 unless the spades lie VERY favorably for you. Even if partner has the ace of hearts instead of the king, full-bore Loser Count will have failed miserably. Below is another example. It's from the Feb. 2017 edition of The Bridge World.*

♠-KQ10x
♥-xxxx
♦-KQx
♣-Jx

Partner	You
1♦	1♥

Full-bore LC dev-o-tays would say, “well, I have a 7-loser hand. Partner has 7-loser for her minimum opening bid, so that's 14 losers. So there must be 10 winners, so I will bid 4S.”

*For those of you who aren't familiar with TBW, it is a magazine—continuously published monthly since 1929—that is universally accepted as THE premier bridge publication. Sort of like TBW is to bridge publications as 60 Minutes is to TV news magazine shows. One of its features asks a panel of the best bridge players in the country what they would do in such-and-such situations—its like the It's Your Call feature in the Bridge Bulletin that I participate in each month.

Well, the expert BWM panel didn't quite see it that way. Out of the 24 panelists, 6 passed 2♥ and 18 tried for game. Not one bid game, even though full-bore LC would tell them to do so.

So you can see that though simple full-bore loser count analysis is superficially appealing, the best players in the country don't seem to think you should follow it blindly. Neither do I. Why? Because it just doesn't work often enough to justify its use in situations like this. So use LC only selectively.

Unless you like losing.

EVENT DESCRIPTIONS FROM THE ACBL

GOLD RUSH PAIRS

This event has 2 strata, 0-300 and 301-750mps. The player with the higher masterpoint holding determines in which stratum the pair plays. All strata play each other. Players are eligible for masterpoint awards in their own or a higher stratum. In this play-through event, the top stratum pays Gold for section tops and overall. The other strata pay red points.

STRATIFIED OPEN PAIRS

This event usually has three mutually exclusive strata, 0-1500, 1501-3000, 3001 and up. The player with the highest masterpoint holding determines the stratum in which the pair plays. In this event, all strata play against each other. Players are eligible for masterpoint awards in their own or a higher stratum.

BRACKETED EVENTS

In these events, very popular today, teams are grouped by their average masterpoint holdings, not by the masterpoint holding of the highest ranked player (as done in stratified events). This allows the players to compete mainly against their equals, while allowing for a reasonable number of contestants in each bracket.

BRACKETED ROUND ROBIN SWISS TEAMS

In this event, roughly 35% of the players receive gold points! Teams are grouped by the team's total masterpoint holdings, not by the highest ranked player's holdings (as done in stratified events). Teams are bracketed, where possible, in groups of 8 and play only against other teams in that bracket. In an 8 team bracket each team plays once against every team in its bracket.

This Is A Recording

Every unit and district in the Acbl has someone assigned to the keep track of all disciplinary matters. Accusations of cheating, unethical behavior, and sometimes even threatening or violent behavior are investigated and kept track of. This position is known as the recorder. To say this is one of the more thankless jobs in the bridge world would be an understatement. For many years (I don't know how many) our unit recorder has been Ruth Stober. She has been doing this job quietly and effectively, to the point that most people don't even know she is doing it. That is a good sign. It's like in a baseball game: if you know the umpire's name he is probably doing a bad job. Ruth has done an excellent job. Ruth has decided she has done this long enough. On behalf of the board of directors and our unit I want to thank her for a job well done. Rob Gordon will be taking over the position. All I can say to Rob is, you have some big shoes to fill.

Double Dummy

By Robert Goldman

I have been teaching bridge and directing sanctioned duplicate games for the past 20 years. For the classes I have now at the 92 Street Y and the UFT, I give the students a Double Dummy problem which they must try to solve by the next class session. This is treated as a mission impossible. The type of bridge play and/or the name of the hand involved might be given to the student.

Here is a sample of the introduction to Double Dummy hands.

A Double Dummy is not a Bridge hand with two dummies, but a Bridge problem in which a person is presented with all four hands and is asked to determine the course of play that will achieve or defeat a particular contract. Since all four hands are in view, the Declarer play and/or Defense are unusually unique. These hands are illustrative rather than actual and the solutions are often Missions Impossible.

FRANK ALLISON DOUBLE KNOCKOUT TOURNAMENT

Starting soon, the first matches of the Frank Allison Double Knockout Tournament will be played in our unit, offering all of Long Island's bridge community an opportunity to participate in an exciting new event.

Here are the highlights of how our Double Knockouts will work:

- Players will form their own teams of 4, 5 or 6 players – including one Captain and one Assistant Captain to be responsible for all scheduling and reporting. (More than 4 is recommended)
- Teams will be seeded in brackets, based on the average master points per team.
- There will be 3 “Flights”: A, B and C.
 - Anyone with over 2,500 masterpoints, along with his/her teammates, will be eligible to enroll in Flight A only
 - Anyone with more than 1,000 masterpoints, along with his/her teammates, will be eligible to enroll in Flight A and/or Flight B
 - Anyone with fewer than 1,000 masterpoints, along with his/her teammates, will be eligible to enroll in all three Flights.
- The enrollment fee is $40 per team for each Flight in which a team enrolls, payable by check to the NSBA. Enrollment forms will be made available at all bridge clubs and on the following page.
- The Tournament Director will assign the teams to their respective brackets and will match up the teams for each round of the tournament.
- The Captains will be responsible for deciding when and where their matches will take place.
 - For each assigned match, the Captains must suggest three possible dates for playing the match.
 - Try to include one weeknight and one weekend whenever possible.
 - After agreeing upon a date, the Captains must select a location for the match. Although the matches may be held in any mutually convenient location (in one's home, country club or elsewhere), if the teams agree to play at a local bridge club, they must contact the bridge club in advance to make the necessary arrangements.
- Each team will be required to play one match per month, starting in April.
- A match is made up of 24 boards – 12 boards for each of 2 rounds. IMP scoring will be used. In the event of a tie after 24 boards, four (4) extra boards will be played to determine a winner.
- The winners of each match will be awarded black points. The winners for each flight will be awarded additional black points (and other prizes, to be determined).
- A team is eliminated from the event if it loses two matches in each of the Flights in which it had enrolled.

The complete NSBA Double KO Conditions of Contest can be found on the LIBRIDGE website.

Unauthorized Information

by Joe Byrnes

UI for short. What is it? The laws of bridge (specifically law 16) preclude a player from using any information unless it was obtained from his or her partner's legal bids and plays, or from anything the opponents have bid. The entire law is a little long so I'm not going to print it here. You can read it at your local club in the law book. I am going to sum up the situations where it most commonly arises.

Partner's Tempo In The Auction

Let's say your left hand opponent opens 2♠ and your partner passes. After your right hand opponent passes would you balance with:

♠ - 865 ♥ - A975 ♦ - K65 ♣ - A63

You might if you weren't vulnerable, but you would be taking a big risk. Now suppose your partner thought a long time (even more than the required time after the stop card was used), or sat there fiddling with the bidding box, and then passed. Now you know partner has a reasonable hand that couldn't act for some reason, such as being short in one of the unbid suits. It is now safe for you to double. Unfortunately the information that partner has a good hand came from his tempo, not his bid. It would be wrong to base a bid on this. You just have to pass.

Partner's Tempo When Playing

Let's say while defending a hand your partner discards the ♦2. If you are playing standard signals this means he doesn't like diamonds. Now suppose he does it, but only after great anguish. Clearly he has a problem. He probably doesn't want to part with a higher diamond, but he couldn't throw away anything else. So you can assume he actually has something in diamonds. This again is unauthorized information. You don't know what partner has based on what he played, you know it based on the tempo of his play. You must proceed as if partner played the 2 in tempo, and assume he doesn't like diamonds.

Partner's Failure To Alert

Let's say your partner opens 1♠. You have: ♠ - Q85 ♥ - A3 ♦ - K875 ♣ - Q1065. You respond 2♣, Drury. Your partner alerts and bids 3NT. He has given you a choice. You might reasonably choose to pass with only 3 spades and a balanced hand. Now suppose he didn't alert your 2♣ bid. Now you might think he forgot about Drury, and you would be tempted to bid 4♠. Again, this is unauthorized information. You think he forgot due to the failure to alert. You have to proceed as if he had properly alerted. Note that you don't have to do anything if the situation is self explanatory. Suppose partner opened 1NT and you bid 2NT as a transfer to diamonds with: ♠ - 87 ♥ - 3 ♦ - 10876542 ♣ - 876

NSBA ISLANDER

If partner failed to alert and bid 3NT you can run to 4♦ if you want. The logic of the situation says that 3NT can't be right. In the previous Drury auction it was a logical possibility. If partner keeps bidding over 4♦, well, it's only one zero. And get a new partner.

What happens in any of these situations? The proper course of action is to summon the director to establish the facts. Usually everyone will agree that someone made a bid out of tempo if that is the issue. After getting the facts the director will instruct everyone to continue the auction and play. At the end of the hand the director will have to determine if the opposing side was damaged by the improper use of the unauthorized information. He should poll other players to see what they would bid in the given situation.

Most of the time there is no damage and the result is not changed. Sometimes the director has to adjust the score. This is not an accusation that anyone has cheated. It happens. Also note that bidding out of tempo is not an infraction by itself. If you need time to think, by all means think. As long as your partner proceeds based on your bid and nothing else all will be well.

Throw away an Ace. Not on the floor or in your pocket. Could try giving it to a relative, but it has to be one that is still living. In Bridge it is nice to win tricks, but sometimes it is more important to win at the right time and at the right place.

And there are occasions that in order to do this we have to get rid of an Ace. On this hand, you need to win the opening lead in the dummy, then cash the other high spade, discarding the ♠A! This clears the way (unblocks) for you to run your top diamonds from the dummy, discarding clubs from your hand.

TEACHERS' NEWS

Our Long Island Bridge For Youth program is expanding. Thanks to our many volunteers, we had more schools than ever participating, and we have commitments from even more schools for the fall. Be a part of this rewarding program. Nothing is more fun than watching the kids play and enjoy our wonderful game.

Email Carol Mathews (mathewscj@aol.com), or Jim Schneider (whistle21751@gmail.com), to find out how you can join our teaching teams. You need not be a bridge expert or teacher...you only need to want to work with the kids.

Teachers Meeting (with Special Emphasis on Teaching Kids)

Thursday, April 27, 2017, 6:30 PM at the Upsky Hotel

If you want to teach or volunteer as a teacher's helper, please attend this meeting. Please register by email. Carol Mathews (mathewscj@aol.com) or Jim Schneider (whistle21751@gmail.com).
